

Beltwide Cotton Conferences

You are invited

Who

Crop Consultants; County Extension Agents; Dealer, Distributor, and Industry Field and Tech Reps; and anyone involved in providing crop production recommendations, should attend this conference to stay abreast of current issues and recommendations. Producers seeking technical information related to pest management also are encouraged to attend. Attendees will be offered CEUs.

What

The conference begins with a noon luncheon followed by an afternoon packed with educational presentations by Extension and University experts including: Roger Leonard, Bob Kemeraït, Larry Steckel, Boyd Padgett and Gus Lorenz. A panel of consultants, along with Extension researchers, will discuss the value of transgenics. The conference keynote speaker is J.R. Bradley. He will provide a humorous and informative look back on his experiences and discuss the role consultants have in helping producers deal with the challenges and issues production agriculture faces now and in the future.
