Beltwide Cotton Conferences

The Beltwide Cotton Conferences (BWCC) speed the transfer of new technology to U.S. cotton producers and other industry members with the goal of strengthening U.S. cotton’s competitive position in the world marketplace and enhancing industry members’ profitability.

Coordinated by the National Cotton Council (NCC) and its cooperating partners, this annual forum is recognized as the global champion for cotton technology transfer. Three days of individual reports, panel discussions, and seminars are designed to enlighten industry members about the latest research developments and their practical applications in cotton production and processing. The 600-plus reports are subsequently made available on CD-ROM and on the Beltwide web site at <https://www.cotton.org/beltwide>.

While cotton industry members recognize the wealth and range of information made available through these reports, they also gain valuable information from fellow attendees - processors, researchers, Extension, consultants, agribusiness representatives and others. This dialogue among all who have a vested stake in a healthy U.S. cotton sector helps industry members tailor new products and production/processing systems to their operations for maximum efficiency.

The Conferences’ success can be attributed to the alliance of the NCC and its many partners. Federal and State Agricultural Experiment Stations, the Cooperative Extension Service, Universities, USDA, Cotton Foundation members, news media and other regional and national cotton organizations all contribute and support the Beltwide Cotton Conferences. This partnership leads to increased U.S. cotton industry productivity and profitability.

Meeting/Banquet Rooms

A function room request form is required to reserve a meeting/banquet room. The request form (http://www.cotton.org/beltwide/index.cfm?page=meeting_banquet_rooms) may be completed online from the Conference web site. The deadline to reserve a meeting room Friday, December 16, 2016. Rooms are assigned on a first-come, first-served basis.

CEU Information

Providing blanket application of continuing education unit (CEUs) credits by Beltwide Cotton Conferences (BWCC) staff on attendees' behalf is no longer feasible.

The CEU application process has always been tailored to each certifying entity's (state regulatory or association certifier) individual CEU requirements. Until recently, the application process across certifying entities was relatively uniform. However, the application process among the various states has now diversified to the point that it is no longer feasible for BWCC staff to provide blanket CEU application service. It also should be noted that two state (MO, FL) certifying entities are no longer accepting the BWCC program for CEU credits.

In the opinion of BWCC staff, Technical Conference programs are robust enough to serve as a source of CEU credits for several technical disciplines. Individuals are encouraged to apply for credits themselves based on their level of participation in the BWCC programs.

2017 Conference Highlights

Technical Conferences

Wednesday, January 4 and Thursday, January 5

Cotton Consultants Conference

The Cotton Consultants Conference is comprised of invited presentations to help satisfy the technical needs of the cotton consultant and others involved in agronomic and pest management decision making. A general session will be followed by round table discussions allowing participants to engage in small group or one-on-one discussions with industry experts. This conference is open to all individuals who desire technical pest management and production related updates needed in the development of efficacious and cost effect management decisions.

2017 Conference Highlights

Technical Conferences

Thursday, January 5 and Friday, January 6

Cotton Agronomy, Physiology and Soil Conference

The Cotton Agronomy, Physiology and Soil Conference provides a forum for a discussion of the life processes of cotton plants and interactions among plant and soil variables that affect crop performance and profitable cotton production. Presentations and posters will focus on topics ranging from molecular biology to applied agronomic research. This includes recent and on-going research that address broad topics related to all aspects of cotton production, including rotations, plant nutrition, fertilizer formulations, rates and techniques, beneficial use of wastes (manures and biosolids), tillage methods, irrigation technology and precision agriculture. Research to be presented will range from basic studies designed to provide understanding of these life processes to studies on the genetic, chemical, biological and physical means of manipulating the physiology of the plant for higher yield and improved fiber quality. Applied research relating to physiological aspects of cotton growth, production and management also is part of the program.

Cotton Disease Council

The Cotton Disease Council represents all areas of cotton disease and nematode research, extension, teaching, industry and production. Participation is open to all individuals with an interest in diseases and nematodes of cotton. The program includes committee reports from the chairmen of the three standing committees and formal presentations and posters relating to diseases and nematodes of cotton.

Cotton Economics and Marketing Conference

The conference addresses a wide range of topics, from the microeconomics of cotton production to macroeconomic issues related to the structure of the cotton industry, markets and trade. The conference will include a Cotton Economics Forum which will explore issues and perspectives related to market outlook, policy and trade issues. Subsequent session presentations and poster displays from researchers in industry, government and academia will focus on improving understanding of the marketing and economic factors affecting the cotton industry.

Cotton Engineering-Systems Conference

The conference provides an opportunity for discussions between engineering researchers and individuals from other industry segments. Engineers and other researchers from industry, universities and federal agencies present information on an array of engineering solutions to problems in cotton production, harvesting and processing.

2017 Conference Highlights

Technical Conferences

Thursday, January 5 and Friday, January 6

Cotton Ginning Conference

The Cotton Ginning Conference provides a forum for researchers and industry representatives to exchange information on new technology to improve gin operation efficiency and the preservation of fiber quality. Industry issues are addressed by researchers and industry experts covering areas such as innovative management strategies, energy conservation, environmental regulations and compliance, labor law compliance and safety.

A joint session with the Cotton Engineering Systems Conference will include the most recent cotton ginning and harvesting research results, with a primary focus on those related to cotton ginning and harvesting, environmental quality measurements and fiber quality preservation.

Cotton Improvement Conference

The Cotton Improvement Conference focuses on breeding and genetics research and development, including classical and newer molecular approaches. The conference provides a forum for scientists and representatives from both industry and public institutions to share the results of their research and development efforts among plant breeders, applied and molecular geneticists, other research scientists and the public.

Cotton Insect Research and Control Conference

The Cotton Insect Research and Control Conference highlights the latest developments in cotton insect pest management with technical papers and posters. A blend of university and industry presentations provides technical as well as practical information to farmers, agricultural consultants and crop managers.

Cotton Quality Measurements Conference

The Cotton Quality Measurements Conference provides an opportunity for researchers focused on aspects pertaining to cotton quality and the measurements of cotton quality to share their research. The conference includes presentations on active and recent research pertaining to instruments and procedures used to measure and evaluate the diverse properties of cotton fibers. Issues being faced in this field include the measurement challenges in cotton breeding and biotechnology programs, global competition and discussions of a universal classing system, and the acceptance of globally recognized cotton standards and cotton testing conditions. The conference is a forum for discussing relationships among fiber quality, processing efficiency and product quality as well as measurement characteristics such as fiber length distribution, fiber neps and contamination (e.g., trash, seed coat fragments and stickiness) along with new developments in measurement and fiber evaluation technology.

Cotton Utilization Conference

The Cotton Utilization Conference is concerned with the marketability of cotton fiber as a manufacturing raw material. This includes all aspects of cotton fiber processability, textile yarn and fabric manufacturing, fabric finishing and processing machinery. This Conference provides an excellent opportunity for cotton researchers to formulate research goals for new and expanded markets in cotton textile and nonwovens manufacturing.

- Textile Technology Symposium: The Cotton Textile Technology Symposium will explore the latest research into practical aspects of cotton's openability, cleanability and processability as the key to its raw-material value for utilization in textile processing.
- Fabric Chemistry, Nonwovens & Products Symposium: This symposium will address the potential for expansion of consumption of cotton fiber in nonwovens as well as focusing on traditional textile finishing chemistry, cellulose modification and applications to innovative cotton finishes, and novel products that can open and expand new high volume and high-value-added markets.

Cotton Weed Science Research Conference

The Cotton Weed Science Research Conference will include paper and poster presentations highlighting the latest research on weed management systems in cotton. Papers will emphasize practical and economical weed control programs involving overviews of new herbicides and technological advances, control options for difficult weed control and resistance management, weed control in reduced tillage and row-spacing systems, and management systems for various herbicide tolerant traits.

Upon signing the contract, the company or individual is responsible for 100% of the total room block for each night, whether used or unused.

Housing Questions and Answers

I can find a lower rate on the Internet, why should I book at the official BWCC hotel?

Negotiated hotel rates incorporate many benefits for you and the Beltwide Cotton Conferences. Based on the number of rooms in the block, other facilities in the hotel including meeting rooms, banquet space, speaker/staff rooms, etc. are made available to the BWCC at a reduced cost. As the number of room nights is reduced, rates for space and equipment, as well as room rates and registration fees for attendees will rise. Additionally, room pickup is the BWCC's strongest negotiating tool for future meeting rates and space.

Why does the hotel assess a cancellation fee after the cut-off date?

Over the past several years, it has become increasingly difficult to manage hotel room blocks for the BWCC. When the BWCC room blocks fill up prematurely with reservations that are cancelled before the conference, other members cannot get a hotel room in the official hotels. If the hotels cannot rebook the room with another BWCC attendee or individual guest, they charge attrition fees to the BWCC.

Due to the substantial number of cancellations that occurred after the cut-off date and prior to the 1999 Conferences, the BWCC Steering Committee modified its cancellation fee policy for the 2000 Conferences. Since this time, attendees have taken greater ownership in canceling unneeded rooms in a more timely fashion, giving more opportunities for the rooms to be resold. If the rooms are not resold, the BWCC may be liable for hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Simply raising or lowering our room block does not alleviate any of the problems associated with cancellations or rooms reserved outside of the official hotels. Hotels are booked three to five years in advance based on room pickup history. To protect the BWCC block and the hotel for this long term commitment, the BWCC is contractually liable for attrition penalties because of unfilled rooms. Unfilled rooms include unbooked rooms as well as those caused by early departure.

If I change the number of room nights reserved after the cut-off date will it affect the BWCC room block?

The second type of attrition possibility results from individuals who book a room for the entire period, then leave early or push back their arrival date. Although an attendee has, in fact, used their reservation, they have reduced the number of room nights that the BWCC will be picking up in the block. By planning well and reserving the correct number of nights, the hotel has a greater opportunity to resell those rooms so that the BWCC will not be liable for them. Reserve only the number of rooms you need for the time you expect to stay.

Who can I contact if I still have questions?

In short, it's good business to stay in the designated official hotels. By doing so, you gain the opportunity to further network with your industry peers and remain in the center of the activity surrounding the conference. The BWCC Steering Committee is committed to providing you with the best possible service by continually reviewing and modifying the Conferences practices and policies.

We appreciate your support of the Conferences by continuing to book your guest room in our official hotels. If you have any questions, please contact the National Cotton Council's Meeting & Travel Department at (901) 274-9030.
