National Cotton Council of America

Results of the 2026 Midterms

Overview

All 435 House seats and 33 Senate seats were on the ballot on Tuesday, November 3. While many races have not yet been called, it is clear that Democrats had a very successful night and that they will hold significant majorities in both chambers when the 120th Congress convenes in January.

Going into election day, Republicans held a razor-thin majority in the House (218–214–1) and a small majority in the Senate (53–47), meaning Democrats needed to only net three seats in the House and four seats in the Senate to flip both chambers. As of November 4, it appears the Democratic majority in the House could exceed 250 seats when the 120th Congress convenes; in the Senate, Democrats will have a majority of between 54–56 seats, depending on the outcomes of undecided races in Mississippi and Alaska.

Why Democrats Won and Republicans Struggled

Democrats successfully capitalized on widespread voter frustration over rising costs, perceived Trump administration improprieties, and, to a lesser degree, the war in Iran and the proliferation of data centers.

President Trump attempted to boost Republican turnout in the last weeks of the race by holding rallies across the country. However, neither his efforts, nor the heavy cash advantage held by the GOP, were able to turn the tide.

House of Representatives

Of the 54 races identified as highly competitive by the Cook Political Report, 35 have been won by Democrats so far, none have been won by Republican, and 19 races have not yet been called. (Among the 18 races identified as true toss-ups, 13 have been won so far by Democrats, none have been won by Republicans, and five races have not yet been called.)

Notable Cotton Belt Races

AL-01: Former representative Jerry Carl (R) defeated Clyde Jones (D) to replace incumbent U.S. Rep. Barry Moore (R), who successfully ran for a U.S. Senate seat. (Non-competitive race)

AL-02: Incumbent U.S. Rep. Shomari Figures (D) defeated state legislator Rhett Marques (R).

AZ-01: Not yet called. Former NFL player Jay Feely (R) is competing against former state legislator Amish Shah (D) to replace incumbent U.S. Rep. David Schweikert (R), who unsuccessfully ran for governor.

AZ-02: Not yet called. Incumbent U.S. Rep. Eli Crane (R) is competing against former Navajo Nation president Jonathan Nez (D).

AZ-06: Not yet called. Incumbent U.S. Rep Juan Ciscomani (R) is competing against retired Marine JoAnna Mendoza (D).

CA-22: Educator and auto shop owner Randy Villegas (D) defeated incumbent U.S. Rep. David Valadao (R).

FL-02: Former congressional staffer Austin Rogers (R) defeated Amanda Green (D) to replace retiring incumbent U.S. Rep. Neal Dunn (R). (Non-competitive race)

GA-01: Insurance broker Jim Kingston (R) defeated Amanda Hollowell (D) to replace incumbent U.S. Rep. Buddy Carter (R), who unsuccessfully ran for a seat in the U.S. Senate. (Non-competitive race)

Last updated at 11:00 ET on November 5

GA-10: State legislator Houston Gaines (R) defeated Pam DeLancy (D) to replace incumbent U.S. Rep. Mike Collins, who unsuccessfully ran for a seat in the U.S. Senate. (Non-competitive race)

LA-05: The race to replace incumbent U.S. Rep. Julia Letlow, who successfully ran for U.S. Senate, will head to a December run-off because no candidate in the ranked-choice election achieved a majority of the vote.

LA-06: The race to replace retiring incumbent U.S. Rep. Cleo Fields (D) will head to a December run-off because no candidate in the ranked-choice election achieved a majority of the vote.

NM-02: Incumbent U.S. Rep. Gabe Vasquez (D) defeated retired police officer Greg Cunnigham (R).

NC-01: Not yet called. Incumbent U.S. Rep. Don Davis (D) is competing against former Department of Defense official Laurie Buckhout (R).

NC-03: Not yet called. Incumbent U.S. Rep. Greg Murphy (R) is competing against former state legislator Raymond Smith Jr. (D).

NC-05: Not yet called. Incumbent U.S. Rep. Virginia Foxx (R) is competing against journalist Chuck Hubbard (D).

NC-07: Not yet called. Incumbent U.S. Rep. David Rouzer (R) is competing against social worker Kimberly Hardy (D).

NC-08: Not yet called. Incumbent U.S. Rep. Mark Harris (R) is competing against contractor Colby Watson (D).

NC-09: Not yet called. Incumbent U.S. Rep. Richard Hudson (R) is competing against former West Virginia state legislator Richard Ojeda II (D).

NC-10: Not yet called. Incumbent U.S. Rep. Pat Harrigan (R) is competing against physician assistant Ashley Bell (D).

NC-13: Not yet called. Incumbent U.S. Rep. Brad Knott (R) is competing against attorney Pat Barringer (D).

SC-01: Not yet called. Attorney Jenny Honeycutt (R) is competing against retired Navy officer Nancy Lacore (D) to replace incumbent U.S. Rep. Nancy Mace (R), who unsuccessfully ran for governor.

SC-02: Not yet called. Incumbent U.S. Rep. Joe Wilson (R) is competing against Air Force reservist Zyon Khalifa (D).

SC-05: State legislator Wes Climer (R) defeated Mallory Dittmer (D) to replace incumbent U.S. Rep. Ralph Norman (R), who unsuccessfully ran for a seat in the U.S. Senate. (Non-competitive race)

TN-05: Former state agriculture commissioner Charlie Hatcher (R) defeated Chaz Molder (D) to replace incumbent U.S. Rep. Andy Ogles, who had been defeated in the Republican primary. (Non-competitive race)

TN-09: Not yet called. State legislator Brent Taylor (R) is competing against state legislator Justin Peterson (D) to replace retiring incumbent U.S. Rep. Steve Cohen (D).

TX-10: Attorney Chris Gober (R) defeated Caitlin Rourk (D) to replace retiring incumbent U.S. Rep. Michael McCaul (R). (Non-competitive race)

TX-15: Singer Bobby Pulido (D) defeated incumbent U.S. Rep. Monica De La Cruz (R).

TX-19: Agriculture lobbyist Tom Sell (R) defeated Kyle Rable (D) to replace retiring U.S. Rep. Jodey Arrington (R). (Non-competitive race)

TX-22: Political consultant Trever Nehls (R) defeated city councilwoman Marquette Greene-Scott (D) to replace retiring U.S. Rep. Troy Nehls (R).

TX-23: Attorney Katy Padilla Stout (D) defeated firearms manufacturer Brandon Herrera (R) for the seat vacated by former U.S. Rep. Tony Gonzales.

TX-27: U.S. Rep. Michael Cloud (R) defeated teacher Tanya Lloyd (D).

Last updated at 11:00 ET on November 5

TX-28: Incumbent U.S. Rep. Henry Cuellar (D) defeated Webb County judge Tano Tijerina (R).

TX-34: Incumbent U.S. Rep. Vicente Gonzalez (D) defeated attorney Eric Flores (R).

VA-02: Former representative Elaine Luria (D) defeated incumbent U.S. Rep. Jen Kiggans (R).

Senate

Democrats have so far won 11 of the 15 Senate races identified by the Cook Political Report as competitive, while Republicans have so far won two. Races in Alaska and Mississippi remain undecided.

Notable Cotton Belt Races

Alabama:	Current U.S. Rep. Barry Moore (R) defeated Everett Wess (D) to replace retiring Sen. Tommy Tuberville (R). (Non-competitive race)
Georgia:	Incumbent Sen. Jon Ossoff (D) defeated current U.S. Rep. Mike Collins (R).
Kansas:	Pastor Adam Hamilton (D) defeated incumbent Sen. Roger Marshall (R).
Louisiana:	Current U.S. Rep. Julia Letlow (R) defeated Jamie Davis (D) to replace incumbent Sen. Bill Cassidy (R), who had been defeated in the Republican primary.
Mississippi:	Not yet called. Incumbent Sen. Cindy Hyde-Smith (R) is competing against prosecutor Scott Colom (D).
North Carolina:	Former governor Roy Cooper (D) defeated former Republican National Committee chairman Michael Whatley (R) to replace retiring Sen. Thom Tillis (R).
Oklahoma:	Current U.S. Rep. Kevin Hern (R) defeated N'Kiyla Thomas (D) to replace Sen. Alan Armstrong (R), who was appointed to the role after Markwayne Mullin (R) left the Senate to serve as Secretary of Homeland Security. (Non-competitive race)
South Carolina:	Physician Annie Andrews (D) defeated incumbent Sen. Darline Graham (R).
Texas:	State legislator James Talarico (D) defeated Texas Attorney General Ken Paxton (R) to replace incumbent Sen. John Cornyn (R), who had been defeated in the Republican primary. EW OR

New or Transitioning Members of the 120th Congress from the Cotton Belt

*Previously served in Congress

AL (Senate): Barry Moore (R)

AL-01: Jerry Carl (R)*

CA-22: Randy Villegas (D)

FL-02: Austin Rogers (R)

GA-01: Jim Kingston (R)

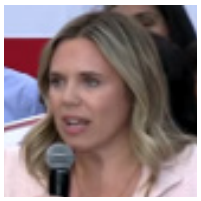

GA-10: Houston Gaines (R)

KS (Senate): Adam Hamilton (D)

LA (Senate): Julia Letlow (R)

NC (Senate): Roy Cooper (D)

OK (Senate): Kevin Hern (R)

SC (Senate): Annie Andrews (D)

SC-05: Wes Climer (R)

TN-05: Charlie Hatcher (R)

TX (Senate): James Talarico (D)

TX-10: Chris Gober (R)

TX-15: Bobby Pulido (D)

TX-19: Tom Sell (R)

TX-22: Trever Nehls (R)

TX-23: Katy Padilla Stout (D)

VA-02: Elaine Luria (D)*

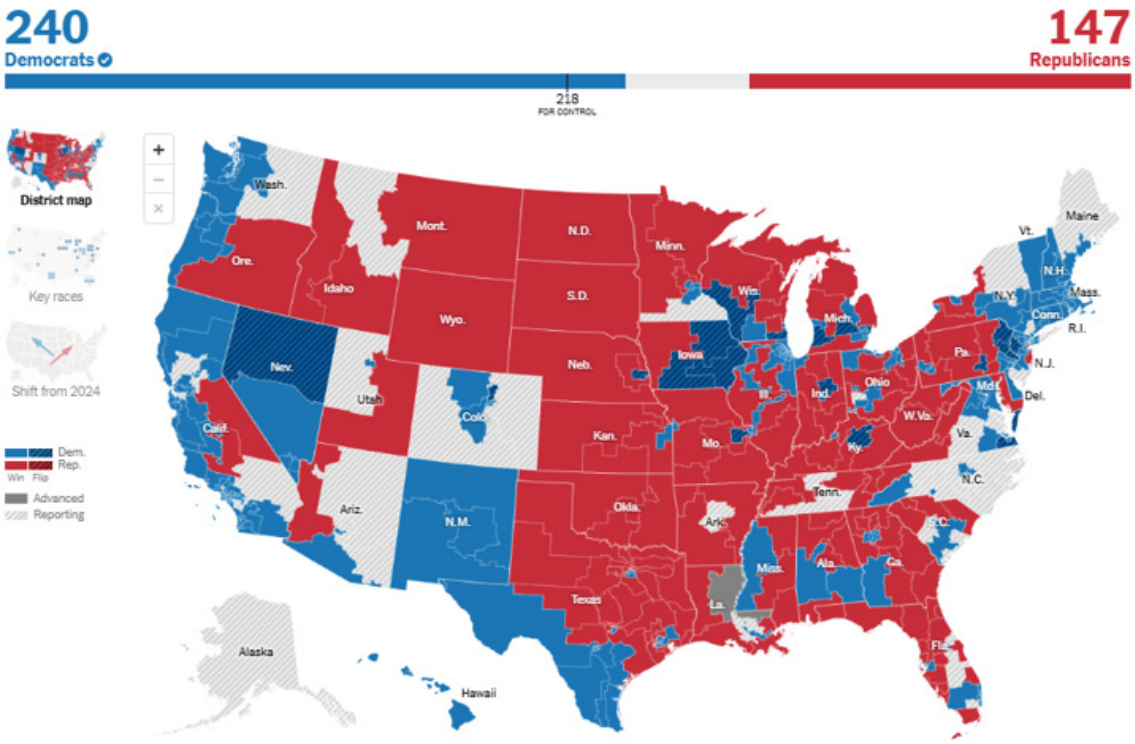

Last updated at 11:00 ET on November 5

House and Senate Election Maps

Courtesy of the New York Times

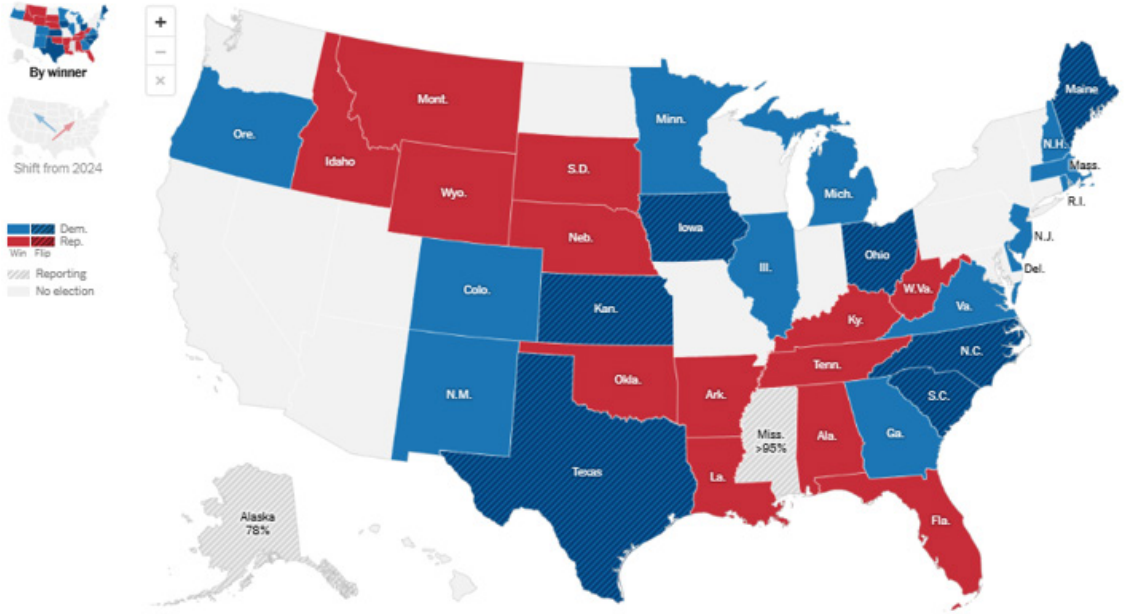

U.S. House Election Results

Democrats took control of the House early Wednesday and were on track to amass the largest majority since the 2008 election.

U.S. Senate Election Results

Democrats have taken control of the Senate, securing victories in several states that President Trump won by double digits in 2024.

Last updated at 11:00 ET on November 5